ADMISSIONS

Admission to North Georgia College & State University is a selective process and meeting minimum admission requirements will not necessarily guarantee acceptance. Typically, over 2,500 applications are submitted for approximately 700 freshman openings for the fall semester. The middle 50% of recently enrolled North Georgia freshmen had SAT-I combined critical reading and mathematics scores between 1050-1150, and a (College-Preparatory Curriculum) high school GPA of 3.10-3.60.

Admission to North Georgia is ultimately determined by the freshman applicant's Freshman Index (FI), which helps determine the student's potential to successfully complete the academic programs of the University. The FI is calculated in the following way:

- $FI (w/SAT) = 500 \times (\text{High School GPA of CPC courses}) + \text{SAT Critical Reading} + \text{SAT Math}$
- $FI (w/ACT) = 500 \times (\text{High School GPA of CPC courses}) + (\text{ACT Composite} \times 42) + 88$

The university reserves the right to refuse applicants when it appears that the number of students already accepted will fill the University to its capacity.

Admission to North Georgia as an undergraduate student does not automatically admit the individual to teacher education, athletic training, exercise science or nursing programs.

Home Schooled applicants with a diploma from a regionally accredited home study program will be given the same consideration for admission as students with a diploma from a public school.
